Up Goes Gold
McAdoo Sees Russia
Swimming Under Water
By Arthur Brisbane

GOLD WENT UP 18 cents an ounce yesterday. Ladies and gentlemen that put their money in gold let it lie, without interest, and then had it taken away from them by the United States government, will quite like that. Whittier borrowed from Danie and Danie borrowed from somebody else.

"For all said words of tongue or pen, The address are these: 'It might have been.'"

Those that know nothing about money, which means about 125,000,000 in the United States, find it amusing to see the United States go off the gold basis, and then enter into a competition with England bidding for gold, which had previously been called an unnecessary feature of our money system.

There are two world prices for gold, one in London, is shilling and pence; one here, in dollars. Nobody knows quite what the pound or dollar is worth, so the value in gold doesn't mean much. The real value of gold is based on the franc, still on a gold basis. So the little French franc, originally worth more than nineteen cents, then cut down to less than four cents, is now the world's standard of value. The President of France, if he knew American slang, might say to the President of the United States, "Laugh that off!"

More interesting than gold to millions of Americans is a white leghorn, owned by H. H. Rutledge of Sardinia, British Columbia. Yesterday she laid her 35th egg in 350 days. It is expected to break the world's record of 337 eggs in 365 days. We think it wonderful when one of our own kind produces a "marvelous baby" weighing nine pounds.

In 60 days that leghorn hen produces eggs weighing more than she does. Senator McAdoo of California, back from Russia, "could not help but see evidence of progress in the construction of huge apartment houses, streets, sewers and transit facilities."

His admiring President Roosevelt's wisdom in moving toward recognition of Russia, and his "unemployment" in Moscow. "I can make people happy over there, whether they want to or not. Here they can't get work even when they want it."

Burns is proud of her champion swimmer, Pauline Krumpholtz, who swam 70 hours and 24 minutes without stopping, in the novel lake at Rangoon, Hawaii, claims the record with Charles Zimmermann, a swimmer, who swam 100 hours in a Honolulu pool.

"That is making a fuss about nothing. Thousands of us down here have been swimming for the last four years without coming up." They have, and so have their bankers. Grover Whalen, extremely able young man, who looks after NRA in New York City, "sold" a million dollars' worth of "The end of the individualist, and great distribution of wealth" books in the past. Years ago slaves worked for nothing but blows and sorrow. Then men were sold with the land. Then came miserably poor wages, less than $25 a year in Russia, for instance.

Five hundred million United States complained that you couldn't hire a good man in Russia for less than $100 a year. Recently mechanics got from five to twenty dollars a day, now they get 100. Occasionally somebody gets a million dollars, or a hundred million. That means nothing. He never takes it with him.

If the end of the "individualist" should come, that would mean an end of starvation. But there is no danger of it. Strong individuals, like Grover Whalen, always exist, each with a top hat and his garden in his buttonhole, if he wants them, they will work for society.

There are no individualists among ants, mud-wasps, or bees. There are, thank Heaven, individualists among human beings. We may reach the million mark, but not in a million years. Copyright, 1921, King Features Synd., Inc.

MAN GETS THE PURSE FREE

Caught in Law's Murder Net

MARSHALL BOWLES. MARION BLENKORN Mrs. Marion Blenkorn of Everett, blonde sweetheart of Bowles, the handi-lad with Desher in the Sommer murder, was arrested with the two men in Wrentham. She caressed Bowles at police headquarters. She has a baby "hoarded out," she said. Bowles was in surly mood when accused by police of the Sommer murder. He boasted Hoffman was too smart for the police.

Atty. Spiegel Is Taken 3-Time Ex-Convict Is in Beacon Fight; a Guilty in Medford's Plot Is Alleged Fruitless Holdup

John Ferguson, 45, of Holland ave., Forest Hills, three-time ex-convict, was sentenced today to life imprisonment for a Middlesex superior court jury had found Ferguson guilty of being a habitual criminal.

For the assault and robbery on a "stuffed man" who had him in his power, Ferguson was sentenced to state prison for the rest of his days under the old law which provides that a person who has been previously convicted and sent to prison for terms of three years or more may be adjudged a habitual criminal on a third conviction.

Ferguson was indicted as a habitual criminal last month, and a co-defendant, William Zarbach, 17, of Highland ave., Roxbury, was indicted on a charge of assault and robbery.

The two are alleged to have trailed Harry R. Lyman of Medford from a power at spyglass to the vicinity of his home and then to have set upon him and robbed him only to find later that the holdup was futile.

Zarbach pleaded guilty in the robbery charge and was sentenced to the state prison for three years. The life sentence was mandatory under the jury's verdict.

When Zarbach appeared the next day in court, he was charged with the robbery of a "stuffed man" who had him in his power, and was sentenced to state prison for the rest of his days under the old law which provides that a person who has been previously convicted and sent to prison for terms of three years or more may be adjudged a habitual criminal on a third conviction.

Stabilizing the Dollar

By Julius Berens
Financial Editor, New York American

THE INDIVIDUAL SALARY or wage earner may well ask where he or she stands in devaluation of the dollar.

To begin with, they must realize that UNLIMITED inflation would work to their utter harm. Dollar devaluation, on the other hand, is a CONTROLLED inflation. It really is REFLECTION.

It is a recognition of what already has taken place, in part. The individual who needs a bushel of wheat must now pay more than 80 cents for it. He could have bought it for 50 cents when prices were at their lowest this year. The same thing in varying proportions, is true also of almost everything else he buys.

BUT THIS PRICE ADVANCE ALREADY HAS TAKEN PLACE.

What is desired is to make sure that business and industry are not again endangered by the re-appearance of such abnormally and disastrously low prices as to threaten ruin for all.

THE DOLLAR has a constantly increasing purchasing power for four years. This purchasing power reached a point where it became impossible for business as a whole to continue, since profits were unavailable and capital was rapidly being exterminated.

Prices received by farmers and other producers and business generally were insufficient to allow payment of debts, or to maintain employment, or to maintain salaries and wages.

What has happened more recently, through the rise in prices, has been a reduction in the dollar's purchasing power.

This is essential to preserve the business structure.

DIETRICH CHILD GOES UP AGAIN IN FILM BAN 22 CENTS

Hollywood, Oct. 27 (INS)—A sharp difference of opinion existed today between Marlene Dietrich, German film actress, and Miss Rachel Smith, child welfare representative.

California law forbids a child of eight to be on a studio lot only eleven hours daily and to work only four hours.

Miss Dietrich's daughter, Miss Dietrich, was working in a picture. Miss Smith said Maria had been there eight hours and ordered her sent home.

Miss Dietrich's director, declared Maria was working in a picture. Miss Smith said Maria had been there eight hours and ordered her sent home.

GIRL, 2 THUGS IN SOMMER DEATH NET

Bowles and Desher Seized at Gunpoint in Wrentham Inn

Two snarling thugs wanted for murder, and the yellow-haired young sweetheart of the tougher one of the pair, were trapped and captured in a Wrentham inn today—and police set about learning the motive for the slaying of the inventor, Adolph Sommer, from the men alleged to have killed him.

Marshall "Kicker" Bowles, listed as Public Enemy No. 14, and James Desher, who escaped in a hail of bullets when police yesterday bungled a three-way ambush near the car of the fugitive Charles Hoffmann, surrendered on the roof of the Wrentham Inn, facing a circle of riot guns at 2:30 this morning.

Blonde is SUSPECTED
With them in the roadhouse was blonde Marion Blenkorn, 24, Winthrop St., Everett, a married woman, mother of a child and admitted sweetheart of Bowles. Police suspect she was the blonde accomplice reported earlier waiting in the hotel car at the scene of several robberies.

Desher is a brother of Dave Desher, former well known boxer. Bowles is a brother of George Bowles, owner of the Inn in which the pair fled after their near-capture in Rialto yesterday.

Boston, Cambridge and State police surrounded the inn and trapped them on the roof when they sought to escape. Bowles admitted and attempted to kill himself by jumping. The trio was rushed to Boston headquarters and lined up on the raised platform for the view of the police.

POLICE VERY GENTLE
"Sure, I know Hoffman," taunted Bowles. "But it's no to you."

FEDERAL AFFILIATE IDEAL PAYS $3149 DEBT FOR $600

LAWYER FREED FROM PAYING ASSESSMENT

Gardner W. Pearson of Lowell 'Insolvent,' Receiver Finds

Gardner W. Pearson, a director in the closed Middlesex National Bank of Lowell, an affiliate of the defunct Federal National Bank of Boston, when Receiver William C. Roeder declared "might be liable for negligence or otherwise," was allowed to settle a claim of $3149 on seven notes for $600 each with interest for a year, it was revealed today.

In addition to this compromise, he was shocked from paying a $1000 assessment levied by the controller of currency on his share of Federal National Bank stock. Pearson forfeited claim to two deposits in the bank, one for $502 to his personal credit and another for $500 to "Gardner W. Pearson, attorney."

WAIVES LEGAL FEES

He also waived further claim to legal fees and expenses totaling $4000 which he claimed the bank owed him, during the condition of the bank. RECORD CALLED FOR IN LEGISLATION

Washington, Oct. 27 (US)—Legislation requiring radio broadcasting stations to record and preserve in permanent form every word spoken over them, to prevent damaging statements and to provide reference basis in libel cases, will be introduced when Congress convenes in January. It is announced by Rep. William L. Stroh (D) of New York.

HUNDREDS PROTEST

Dr. Strohich said the radio should be on the same level with newspapers with regard to injurious and libelous statements transmitted by them and that therefore an exact mechanical record of all broadcasted should be made available for consultation. He said: "Protests have come in by hundreds from people who say they have been misquoted by radio interviews, but there is now a record on which to base charges." Senator Wallace H. White, Jr. (R.) of Maine, agreed that the situation regarding government supervision of radio statements was unsatisfactory and said the legislative possibilities would be studied with a view to rectification of abuses. While, like Strohich, has been active in radio legislation.

REGULATE PROGRAMS:

"There exist no regulations for compelling stations to preserve a copy of all their programs. Legislation to this end would be useful and provide a needed safeguard against damaging expressions by wireless."

Dr. Strohich declared compulsory records of programs would greatly improve the moral tone of radio entertainment and minimize much that is considered harmful and distasteful to radio audiences.

LINDBERGH SEE PARIS INCOG

Paris, Oct. 2-Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, slipping secretly into Paris to avoid an arrest, yesterday were welcomed by thousands of Parisians who cheerfully greeted the aviators.

Col. Lindbergh went unrecognized. Mrs. Lindbergh rode up the bustling Champs Elysees, escorted by a work-day throng without even the chauffeurs recognizing the eagerly-peering young woman as the famous ocean-flier's wife.

While Mrs. Lindbergh was a luncheon guest at the home of Mrs. Jean Day, wife of a member of the Morgan banking firm here, the colonel had lunch with two acquaintances.

Griffin was arrested by Patrolmen Thomas Kujawa and Terence McKenna, a companion, who was riding with him in an illegally stolen auto, escaped. Officers chased the pair a half-mile before the youths abandoned it. Griffin was overhauled, but his companion fled.

When officers were leading him away a gang started to follow. Griffin allegedly cried for help. This was the signal for the barrage of bricks. Residents called police and the riot was finally nipped.

Daniel F. Crowley, Engineer, Succumbs

Bristol, Oct. 27—Daniel F. Crowley, 57, consulting water engineer on navy projects in New England and New York, died in a hospital here after being stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage.

Crowley, a native of Medford, Mass., joined the Boston water department after his graduation from Tufts in 1890. A few years later he came to Bristol. He leaves his wife, a son, Frank, and a daughter. Miss Mary Crowley, president of the Junior class at Dryden College, 82, Weds Woman Legislator

Watertown, N. Y., Oct. 27 (INS)—Rev. George E. Hatchwell, 82, and Mrs. Ida S. Woodruff, 82, widely-known prohibition leaders, were quietly married here last night.

The couple met years ago through their work for the prohibition cause. Mrs. Woodruff's husband, the late Dr. T. M. Woodruff of Watertown, died a year ago. Hatchwell's wife died recently.

Are you in the same boat with Mr. J. W. T.? Here's what he told us day before yesterday — "My salary hasn't gone up—yet. I've got to stretch every dollar—I can't take a chance on just any suit of clothes. I know Cameron Worsteds—I've worn 'em! They keep their shape no matter how hard I wear 'em—and believe me, I punish my clothes plenty. Give me a Cameron Worsted and I'll be set for the rest of the winter"—today or tomorrow?

Fortunately, we're still able to meet the demand for Camerons at their old price—$25, including 2 trousers. But goodness knows what they'll be after this last lot is gone. So why don't you "get set for the rest of the winter"—today or tomorrow?

Stabilizing the Dollar

—By Julius Berens—

It is absolutely necessary to relieve debtors. Once business enjoys profits again, and the debtor is reasonably relieved of part of his burdens, then the benefits will prove nation-wide.

It is the very essence of capitalism that business must enjoy profits and that debtors must be able to carry debts.

This is the double objective sought in devaluation of the dollar.

Devaluation is a sensible, logical, essential compromise between the out-and-out inflationist and the self-satisfied extreme conservative who would make no change whatever in the economic structure.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT must appreciate that a higher and FIRM price structure is absolutely required to preserve the NRA undertaking. The capitalist must be reassured that his money is not to be wiped out by reckless inflation.

The industrialist who would place orders for future delivery must have a reasonable idea of just what the value of the dollar will be.

The business man who is anxious to bid for business for future delivery must also know, within reason, what the value of the dollar will be.

With stabilization intentions proclaimed officially by the President, there would ensue such a return flow of capital to the United States as to give the investment markets, and thus business, a vast stimulus, quite apart from all other influences. This value must be measured, until a better measuring rod is presented, in gold.

WHEN THE ECONOMIC Conference was under way in London these newspapers opposed stabilization of the dollar.

It was stated then that the dollar's gold valuation had not depreciated sufficiently in relation to the necessary price and debt structure of this country.

Since then the dollar has dropped. Its gold value should be reduced further. There is no cure-all for depression.

But dollar devaluation seems to be the most essential and promising of available nearby steps.

If still higher prices are necessary after devaluation, then they can proceed from so-called normal methods, once dollar devaluation is affected to prevent prices from breaking back to the dismal levels prevailing not so long ago.

It is for the purpose of achieving the results outlined in this series of editorials that President Roosevelt is ardently urged now to declare himself for 50 per cent dollar devaluation.

He should, logically, announce this as his ultimate objective.

Knowing President Roosevelt's definite intentions, owners of capital, be they capitalists or small money saver, business man or speculator, can then with their capital what they determine to be best.

Litvinoff on Way

If You Can Buy It For Less Elsewhere—Return It Unused And We Will Refund Your Money Or The Difference

A tribute in which all may share!

In addition to the low Roosevelt Day prices, we give you one Legal stamp with every 10c worth of purchase. You get $2.00 in cash or $2.50 in merchandise for each book you fill. Saturday is a good day to start a book. In fact, Saturday would be an ideal day to FILL a book.

If you have a charge account at any other store, we can open one for you at a moment's notice Saturday. If not, we suggest that you come down today (Friday) and make arrangements so that your charge account will be ready to use Saturday.

A staff of 35 experienced shoppers will be on duty from 9 A. M. to 9 P. M. Saturday. All orders accepted subject to quantities on hand. Call CAPital 6300 please.

We reserve the right to limit quantities to any one person. Nothing will be sold to dealers.

On most articles of home furnishings, only a small down payment is required and the balance will be conveniently distributed over a period of months.

Beginning with Roosevelt Day we shall once again permit charging of foodstuffs and will deliver all purchases over $1.00 FREE. See our large market ad on Page 8.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT WANTS MORE BUSINESS!
THE PUBLIC WANTS REASONABLY LOW PRICES
ROOSEVELT DAY at HOUGHTON'S Will Please ALL

Saturday, Oct. 28, for one day only!

We wish we could say that we planned this sale months ago. We usually plan our sales far in advance, but Roosevelt Day was an inspiration of a few weeks ago and we lost no time setting date . . . and setting the machinery of a sale moving at high speed.

Our buyers immediately rushed to the markets, enthusiastically explained our idea to the manufacturers. They responded with values that we know would have been impossible for any other sale but a Roosevelt Day.

We wish you could have been with us during that intensive period of preparation. To have evidenced the respect and confidence of the business men and women of America in President Roosevelt would have done you good.

The work is not yet done. As this is being written carload after carload of merchandise is rumbling towards Boston. Extra hands are unpacking the merchandise as it arrives. Other extra hands are marking it and preparing it for what we expect will be the most active day of business we have had thus far this year.

Needless to say, everything was purchased under the NRA, as President Roosevelt wished.

PROGRESS OF NRA BROADCAST

By N. P. T.

Pages of the stenographic drive to give suffering Uncle Sam his economic health back, are being set forth in a monographic "March of Time" production that echoes through the CBS network at 8 p. m. (WNAAC) this Saturday evening when 80 arrives. An interesting and 1 dare say impressive hour of retrospective summary is sure, sure enough, to be a most profitable dramatic review. It will remind us how our around America has recorded such real progress in the route of a ravaging depression that has found "New Deal" leadership afraid.

CURRENT COLOR

An outline of the above character can only be accurate in timely detail. Everything reflected will have to do with incidents less than a year old by four months, therefore, circumstances obviously well remembered. We are fully given to understand the talent to accord certain last minute domestic and international developments all of the important treatment to which they are entitled. Just this week President Roosevelt electrified the not too crowded world with two sudden strokes of studied statesmanship. One was an invitation to the Soviet Russia, asking said government to send an emissary for discussions, including probable early recognition and profitable trade relations. Then came the gold policy declaration, generally viewed as a forerunner of stabilized currency.

These and numerous other episodes are colorful to be sure, for all of their serious significance. There is likewise a lighter touch of interest when it is hoped "March of Time" program planners will not overlook. Those days when dinner revues and nickels were as scarce and while small change we could make and scrape together, the other fellow was wholeheartedly welcome to have half-remembered "Gutter" beating the baby's bank took in almost any household!

RAIL HUSING!

Trail howling and the annual Yuletide grinders goings on at New Haven, will be network "out of their corner" at 8 p. m. (WNAAC) by Ted Husing, who starts telling the story and 8 p. m. No telling when he'll finish.

From the green high hills of Manover, as sport scribbles start scribbling, there will not only a to a midweek football team to take a turn at the yard hunkies, b. also a very vigorous bad-meaning 75 pieces. This big Duxin-Jits College musical continent, will of course broadcast, contributing a typical "Night Before" round of Alma Mater football and sports songs. Such can be had for the twist of a wrist in the direction of WBSZ-WBSZ, waves on your set, the time spread being over 30 minutes from 10:15 to 10:45 p. m. Coach Jack (Everett) Campbell of Dartmouth is likely to step up and say a few words about pick-up play in between the band selections. There some extra special quartet vocalizing promised too.

The Keyhole on the News

Ironie

One of life's little ironies cheated 25-year-old Dr. Adolph Rommer of what might have been a lost moment of true pleasure just before his life was snuffed out by a hail of gangster bullets.

Let Hans Humberg, payroll ear driver and witness of the murder, tell the story. As he told it to unimpaired state detectives and Cambridge police in the office of District Attorney Warren L. Bishop:

"Dr. Rommer," Humberg said, "was always crazy about flowers. He really loved flowers, but he would not have them at the factory because he was afraid they would be scientific. And he was a scientist all his life long."

But once a week, on Fridays when we went by to get the payroll, then Dr. Rommer would say go by Memorial Drive along the river so we can see the flowers grow. And we usually did. But not this week. We took a new route. Because the doctor was afraid of holdups now. So he didn't see the flowers. But the hold up men he did see. And they killed him."

Convicted

Patrolman "Jigger" Donahue of the Warren station yesterday was obliged to interfere in what was supposed to be a private matter between a blind beggar and the latter's assistant.

The beggar, apparently the injured party, was quelled and persuaded to tell his story. "We'd had a hum day," he said, "and our take was something. On the way home, though, we went by a bakery and the doughnuts looked elegant. We couldn't afford it, but we bought a dozen. I took a bag of six and Bill took a bag of six and we agreed to eat one each, right off, and keep all the rest to have at supper. That was all right, but Bill ate four, five and six myself. And Bill never ate much, he just whimpers. So I knew he must have a guilty conscience."

A buzzy break, John, snatched Officer Donahue. "But explain me one thing. How came it, blind as you are, you saw our assistant, Bill, had eaten his six and doughnuts?"

"I knew it was," retorted the light-blue panhandler triumphantly. "I ate two, then three, then four, five and six myself. And Bill never ate much, he just whimpers. So I knew he must have a guilty conscience."

Run-Around

Charles Friedman, orchestra leader, has something new in his new hobby. He is learning to knit. And his first job of work with the knitting needles and the ball of pink yarn was a pair of tiny what-you-may-call-them for his baby daughter, Joyce. A family woe started it all. . . . It was by accident that Court Clerk Jeremiah Sullivan, in Judge Hugh D. McLaughlin's session of federal criminal court, has so musical an intonation to his "hearty, hearty" chant in opening and closing sessions. He is a trained opera singer and frequently entertains friends with selections from the classics. . . . Tom Whelan, Lynn English high school football coach, likes to stock steak dinners for favorite guests. . . . Tim Brady, Boston College coach, has achieved new all-time top in undergraduate accomplishment. While in New York for the Freshman game, he tossed an apple from the roof of the Hotel Taft to the roof of the Hotel Victoria, across the way, where it was caught by a Boston College cheerleader. Who presumably led a cheer night then and there. Another stunt is vouchered for by numerous and enthusiastic witnesses. . . . Atty. Jack Dunn says that Bowdoin's champion newscoroner is a boy bootblack. The kid was among the crowd which welcomed a famous personage to the city. Papers had said there was to be an air gun salute. As the visiting celebrity stepped off the ship, army artillery raised its impressive and ear-shattering tribute. Flare waved, cheers resounded, but the bootblack was intent only on counting the cannon blasts. On the 12th tremendous impact, the salute ended. The bootblack, vainly waiting for the expected half dozen more explosions, spat disgustedly. And pronounced judgment: "Just listen!" To stop the Federal Building, reporters asked Weather Forecaster G. Harold Noyes to point out where the world's coldest spot is located. There was friendly argument as to whether lower temperatures would be found by going north or going south. "Both wrong, boys," said Noyes. "The coldest spot is straight up. And you wouldn't have to travel far."

Roosevelt Day AT HOUGHTON'S

Today's issue of the Boston American contains right pages of Houghton & Putnam's advertising for "Roosevelt Day" tomorrow. This is an impressive demonstration of the power that the NRA possesses and in the responsiveness of American readers.

"Roosevelt Day" was prompted by the President's appeal for national recovery would be aided by normal buying by consumers. In many ways the sale is an important contribution to the purpose and principle of the NRA. All purchases were made from makers operating under the code, thus providing work for factory employees and business for manufacturers. In addition, a large reward of extra employees were added in the stores to handle the goods and for selling.

In this sale, as in the events, Houghton has not only added to the store's revenue, but also increased in commodity code as time progresses. Houghton has endeavored to make it possible to supply home and personal needs economically, without undue comment on rising prices.

One of the interesting features in connection with "Roosevelt Day" is the window display, showing photographs of the President from childhood to the present day.

Rodeo Pony Free for Smart Boy or Girl

Texas Cow Horse, With Saddle and Bridle, Is Your Prize

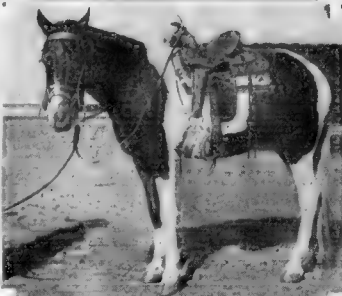

The Boston Evening American today begins a contest open to all boys and girls readers between the ages of six and 16 inclusive, which has as its purpose the raising of a beautiful little Texas cow pony. The interesting story is exactly the kind on which those reckless, hard riding cowboys perform in Col. William T. Johnson's world's championship rodeo.

The opportunity for boy and girl readers in brief is just this: Find his name in the advertising and you can have him.

WRITE ANY SIMPLE

Through the courtesy of John Henry Storer, that handsome and interesting cowboy, a prize is offered to our juvenile friends. The winner will be presented with the cow pony at the center of the rodeo at the Boston Garden on Nov. 1, the last day of the great Western exhibition.

Here's how these eligible can compete in the contest: This little brown and white pony has a secret name. That name will appear daily in at least four advertisements of the regular advertisers in the Boston Evening American. The first one to find what the name of the pony is will win him and with him a beautiful hand-tanned bridle and saddle and a fine brightly colored Texas saddle blanket.

Find this point pony's name in the Boston American advertising and he's yours.

Born in Texas, this beautiful young American beginning with this issue of the newspaper and continuing until Thursday.

FOLLOW THE ADS

Sometimes in the advertisements among its presentation whatever Youngsters should look carefully finding it, or guessing it, and the name you have selected to the Editor, Boston Evening American. Your letter should contain nothing but the name you have decided upon for the pony and your name, address and telephone number. If you have no telephone, just the name and address.

Here is a really wonderful gift for any youngster, but in the event of the winner deserving $100 instead of the cow pony that sum will be paid by Col. Johnson.

Start today to search the ads of the Boston Evening American. The results will be announced in the issue of November 9 and 10.

GIRL DIES AFTER DODGE WIDOW FACES GRILL

Valiant efforts to save the life of Mae Kelly, 12-year-old Whitehall, N. Y. girl by Boston's best brain specialists were at an end today, death coming after she had undergone two of the most delicate operations known to surgery.

The little girl became blind late last summer and was rushed here by her parents, who were informed that the best available medical men were located in Boston. On Sept. 25 an operation on a tumor pressing on her brain was performed as the girl rallied.

However, a second operation was necessary and this was performed last Monday after the child seemed to be making favorable progress. The tumor was completely removed in this operation but the girl never rallied.

First, Mrs. Kelly, Oct. 27 (AP)—As an unexpected development in the investigation of City Commissioner Vernon W. Dodge's death two weeks ago, his widow, Mrs. Myra Dodge, 43, was detained today by police for questioning.

When Dodge's body was found suspended from the door of a clothes closet in his home on Oct. 10, his death was described as a suicide.

But Dr. J. M. Sutherland, coroner, explaining that he wished to clear up "grosses rumors" that were in circulation, called an inquest.

Firemen Try to Save Weymouth Woman

Weymouth firemen were using an inhalator today on Mrs. Mary Dyer, 74, of 151 Broad st., Weymouth, trying to save the elderly woman's life.

Mrs. Dyer was stricken with pneumonia late last night and when her condition became worse at 3 a. m. today, Dr. C. A. Webster asked aid of the Weymouth firemen. The first two firemen went immediately to work with the inhalator, and relief firemen continued at 7 o'clock this morning.

MOONEY PLANS GUARD FIRES AT NEW BATTLE BROCKTON BOYS

San Francisco, Oct. 27 (AP)—The Examiner says defenders of Tom Mooney, serving a life prison term for the San Francisco 1916 Preparedness Day bombing, will be charged with guard duty in the United States Supreme Court next month.

The paper says the decision to take this step in the prisoner's 37-second battle for exoneration was announced by members of the Mooney defense committee here, but that the firm of the proposed action was not disclosed.

Adelmo Addario, 25, of Lorain St., Brockton, will be assigned to guard duty in the Supreme Court today charged with assault with a dangerous weapon.

He was arrested by a police officer on charges of striking a police officer in the stomach yesterday.

Addario declared he fired at the members of the committee thinking the company to be attackers who intended to harm the prisoners.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES TO PLAY 9-GOAL POLO!

CECIL SMITH, ONE OF THE HIGHEST-RANKING polo players in the world, and sensational star of the recent open-championship matches on Long Island, says, "Most polo players, myself included, prefer Camels. I like their flavor and they never upset my nerves."

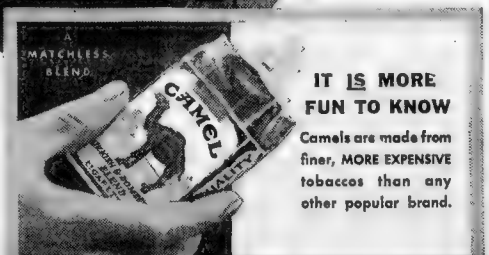

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

It's no place for a jangled nerve—this game called polo. Listen to Cecil Smith, one of America's finest players:

"Polo makes continuous demands on your nervous system. A fraction of a second determines whether or not you can successfully ride your opponent out of a play and a fraction of an inch in your aim when going full gallop may mean the difference of a goal made or missed. No wonder international polo takes years of practice, excellent physical condition and healthy nerves. Most polo players, myself included, smoke a great deal. And most polo players, myself included again, prefer to smoke Camels. They seem milder. I like their flavor and they never upset my nerves."

Try Camels yourself. You'll like their flavor, too—and whether you play polo or not you'll appreciate the fact that you can smoke as many as you want without upsetting your nerves.

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW
Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

THAT GIRL FROM NEW YORK

Eden Is Shocked as Esterbrook Suddenly Appears While She Is With Jerry

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Love, young Eden Lane and handsome Jerry Evans, a banker, fall in love on sight. Eden would not allow Jerry to kiss her the day they met, as she was waiting for the moment when the love would be important—not casual. Five years before, following a disastrous love experience, Eden had come to New York. She obtained a position with an advertising concern and there, together with the income from her mother's estate, permitted her to live comfortably. Her popularity was assured, for not only was she beautiful and fascinating to men but she was an amusing companion who was stimulating without being intellectual. After two years in New York, she met Jake Pearson, an undemonstrative man who aroused order by his lack of it. He proposed to Eden, but, while she enjoyed his companionship thoroughly, she did not love him. Following Eden's rejection, Jake disappeared. When not she saw him he was married, but his wife had gone to Arizona in her health.

NOW CONTINUED FROM THE STORY

CHAPTER 8

"Yes—I'm not good at explaining things. But you're like that—like a person who hasn't always been happy and once in a while remembers. You haven't always been happy, have you, Eden?"

"Has anyone?" She brought back her eyes to his swiftly. "I suppose I've been very unhappy at times," she shrugged. "Does it matter now?"

She smiled at him suddenly and Jerry had a fleeting sensation that her eyes brimmed with tears. He answered her quickly, "Of course not. Only someone about you, you'll measure the pleasure about you. She stared at him steadily. "You know the pleasant things about me, Jerry—must you know the unpleasant ones?"

"Aren't they usually the most important?"

Their eyes held for a long moment, then Eden said huskily, with a forced little laugh, "Is anything different—except that I'm not each other."

And—"Of course not," Jerry told her again and found her hand across the table and her fingers entwined with his. "About the people's eyes were reassuring and quite content."

Eden looked away slowly, her hand parted in a gesture that was almost a shrug, and she looked at him with a sudden, unguarded smile. "You were still several years away—Paul told him and a little heavy, dressed in a very expensive suit. She forced her eyes to drag her eyes away from him, and she saw his fingers and light a cigarette. She told herself fiercely that it was not of the slightest importance that even if he did recognize her, he would not stop to look at her merely how and walk by in it couldn't matter at all."

He was quite close now, in a moment he would pass her table. The girl with his hand on her wife. Eden remembered suddenly that he had married early in the morning.

"I've not seen her. It was quite possible he would not see her. He was smiling at his wife, Eden thought suddenly that no man so bold and so far ahead of her would allow himself the luxury of such a complacent expression. It made him look too distinctly smug, you felt that any moment he might rub his hands together and say 'I'm the man'."

She was conscious of a positive physical nausea. Then she saw his eyes flicker into recognition but not for her. For Jerry, and Jerry was looking at her, his hand outstretched, his face smiling, his eyes cordial, pleasantly surprised. "Well, hello, Jerry, old man—and Nina—when did you get back?"

"Hello, Jerry—last week—had a great trip."

"Hello, darling. You were the most devastating host man any wedding ever had. Nina, speaking, widening her eyes, lifting her hand at Jerry."

And you were the most exquisite bride," he assured her gallantly. "Eden may I present Nina and Paul Esterbrook?"

Nina bowed casually. "How do you do?"

"How do you do?" returned Eden smiling at her bride. And "Hello, Paul," she said evenly, lifting her eyes to Nina's husband.

"Why, Eden Lane—of course—he finished deeply, took her hand, held it for a moment, dropped it awkwardly."

"You two know each other?" Jerry grinned at them inquiringly.

"Yes—that is, we used to know each other six or seven years ago. Eden and Jerry had been completely lost. There had been that little moment of terror and now she felt nothing, beyond a rather weary acceptance of an unpleasant accident."

"Yes, of course," agreed Paul quickly. "Nina seeing you again, Eden—wonderfully nice."

"Thank you." "I hope," said a wife, putting a little with a really lovely mouth, "that you are not one of the old ones. I am so frightfully jealous of one of the girls he made love to."

"Oh, no, Mrs. Esterbrook. We just happened to get invited to the same place one summer."

"Oh, course," Paul agreed again.

Eden's eyes were fixed on Jerry's face. "You're like that—like a person who hasn't always been happy and once in a while remembers. You haven't always been happy, have you, Eden?"

casualty. "One falls in love in a moment, doesn't it? And I seem to remember something about the use—?" She smiled at him casually with her lips.

"Thank you," Jerry murmured in reply. "I can't seem to mind at all—probably because he is a little fat now and safely married. You've told me much about the man you've loved, Eden. Were there many?"

Eden answered Jerry's question in negative.

"No," she said it gravely, quite dispassionately.

"And now you love me." It was not a question—it was a statement of a fact, very beautiful, almost unbelievable fact.

"Yes," she gave him her eyes suddenly and they were very still and darkly blue and hard to fathom. Something deep down inside of her was hurting terribly and she knew it did matter to her that Paul Esterbrook had come here tonight—that it would always matter. She thought, bearing down hard on the pain inside of her, shutting it out of her eyes, closing her heart about it fiercely. "Why did I have to happen? Why did Jerry and Paul and I have to meet like that?"

"The orchestra swung into its first waltz. Jerry leaned in and told her, said, 'Shall we dance?'"

His voice trembled a bit. He was thinking, suddenly, that he must have her in his arms, must feel the swift beating of her heart against his, must have the touch of her hair against his face.

They danced once and then left. Halting a taxi, they rode south to the corner of 12th and West, 12th at and then left it at Eden's suggestion, to walk the rest of the way between the houses.

Eden's apartment house was of a red brick and it had a short flight of stairs and a little doorway. Inside, you were a little surprised and a little disappointed to find a tiled foyer and a softly lit dining room. You entered a dim old hall with a curving, graceful stairway. But as Eden pointed out, what was lost in beauty was certainly gained in convenience as the entrance was in the very center of the house, which in this case was the fifth.

They went up now, in the elevator, and Eden produced a latchkey and unlocked the door on the right-hand side of the hall. After she had snapped on the white and silver lamp, tossed her hat and coat onto the divan, and run her fingers through her hair, she turned to Jerry, smiled at him slowly, and

Boston Girls Know Makeup Says Beauty Expert

By CHARLIE DAVENPORT

The name, Helena Rubinstein, is familiar to every woman in this country. Perhaps she is even better known abroad. So when Madam Rubinstein paid a flying visit to Boston yesterday, she inspired the feminine part of the newspaper to put on high heels—and a little makeup—for a change, when they rushed to meet her.

A good influence? Marvellous! Madam Rubinstein leaves a trail of improved faces around the world. She is the kind of a person you would think a beauty authority would be. Not at all frightening—but pleasant, gracious and very human. She told us about her sons. One is at Oxford, the other at Harvard.

Paul Esterbrook had come here tonight—that it would always matter. She thought, bearing down hard on the pain inside of her, shutting it out of her eyes, closing her heart about it fiercely. "Why did I have to happen? Why did Jerry and Paul and I have to meet like that?"

The orchestra swung into its first waltz. Jerry leaned in and told her, said, "Shall we dance?"

"Skippy" Has Playmates

The exhibition of water colors, oils, drawings and etchings by Percy Crosby, creator of Skippy, the Boston Evening American's comic strip, is on at the New Art Galleries in Boylston st. Miss Marie Shearn of Brookline admires one of the etchings. The title of the work is "The Pump." For the first time since the artist has been exhibiting, his works are for sale. (Boston American photos.)

Crosby Reveals Art Talent Unknown to 'Skippy'

Percy I. Crosby, creator of the comic strip "Skippy," which appears daily in the Boston Evening American, is a man of many talents. He is not only a successful cartoonist, but also a talented artist. His art talent was revealed in a recent exhibition of his water colors, oils, drawings and etchings at the New Art Galleries in Boylston st. The exhibition was a great success, and many of his works were sold. Crosby's art talent was unknown to "Skippy," but it is now being recognized by the public.

GEORGE WHITE GOES WEST

To Direct Screen Version of "Vanities"

Producer Will Be Assisted at Fox Studio by Ray Henderson; Columbo in 'Moulin Rouge'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service
Copyright, 1933, Universal Service, Inc.
Los Angeles, Oct. 27.—It's going to be just dandy on the Fox lot when George White reaches here with Ray Henderson to begin work on the "White Scandals," which are to be an annual Fox feature. Within a stone's throw from the White cottage, Buddy De Sylva and David Butler will be working hard on "Bottoms Up." A little farther down the line Lew Brown and Eddie Sutherland will be concentrating on Fox Movietones.

The three—DeSylva, Henderson, and Brown—were in a room at the Hotel New Yorker in New York last week, and they were talking over the "White Scandals" and other popular Broadway reviews. New York they do not speak as they pass by. Instead of working together, the three will be competing for the title of "The White Scandal."

Ray Henderson, who is a graduate from the Pullitzer School of Journalism, is Louella O. Parsons practicing what he learned when he was a crack reporter on the old Morning World. That is that competition is the life of art. Joseph Pulitzer used to have two men every job just to be sure that no one reporter would feel himself less important.

You will be seeing Ray Henderson in his blue suit in "Moulin Rouge." The crooner, who is now lured with Bing Crosby and Rudy Vallee in radio impersonations, has been added as a last minute feature in Constantine Minsky's picture. Rudy will sing and sing and sing some more and you can credit Rudy Zankow with the idea for it. It's Rudy that got himself headlined in "Broadway Through a Keyhole." The well known sisters are also with the Bennett.

Chatter in Hollywood

Pola Negri is extremely quiet, her friends in New York say, over her widely rumored engagement to Harold McCormick, millionaire. Maybe it's because Pola is interested in another direction now. On the boat returning from Europe she met George White, who visited Howard Hughes in Hollywood and more recently in London. But it doesn't seem as if at first sight, or whatever you please, but the romance between Pola and George is sizzling at the moment. As for Mr. McCormick, he is probably pretty busy with Mrs. Doubleday's breach of promise case against him. Mrs. Doubleday has also been in Hollywood many times.

One of the best looking men about town in Hollywood is David Manners. He is so popular with the girls that when he told of building a new home in Victorville plenty of them would have said "yes" had he put the question. David no more than built his house than he accepted a job with British International. He leaves November 15 for London and will spend Christmas there, but he will be in the friends that he will be seeing Christmas later. He isn't doing "Douglas Fairbanks" and giving up the screen for the time being. That's what he reports from London say that Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., is seen every day with Mary Wilson.

Big Burlesque Show on Way

What the Old Howard announces as the most lavish burlesque show it has had in all its years, comes to town Monday night. The company arrives from the Irving Place Theater in Manhattan, and the equipment includes two complete scenery, many stars and a chorus of 24.

"Going to Town" is the name of the production, sponsored by Allan Gilbert. It is part of the Wilner Wonder Wheel, which trained in New York and presented first at the theater which helped make burlesque popular. The cast includes the three Bays Sisters, Harry Symons, Jean Lee, Gladys Smith, Jess Mack, Howard Paden, Janie Jack, Ross, Peggy Smith, the Three Brown Sisters and Mary Wilson.

Professor George Warren of Cornell, administration adviser on currency, wants "a commodity dollar of gold and rubber."
And why not? We need a dollar that will bounce back after we spend it.

To replace rubber checks.
Gals with neither kids nor kin are married by the smarter men.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT
(Kneeling) AD—(Lying) MA, (Dancing) WANTED—Middle-aged housekeeper, living expenses and salary. See Mrs. Vier, 207, St. Grand, 2nd.

Most of us would be satisfied with just living expenses and salary.
There's a lot of good arguments against kidding yourself," says Genevieve the kitchen cynic, "but nevertheless there's no way you can have more fun with less effort."

OMIGOSH!
(News Item)
"We are concerned primarily in establishing minimum prices to producers and maximum prices to consumers," said George N. Pack agricultural adjustment administrator.

Q. and A. DEPARTMENT

Dear Sympathetic Aunt Bella:
Do you not really think that the possession of wealth and position are a great handicap to someone who really wants to be something in the world? Personally, I often think it is much easier to struggle against poverty than against wealth.

Ans.—Auntie B. can only speak for herself, kiddo. And it's certainly been hard for her to struggle against wealth.

A. ("Practical") Bella.
IT'S THE CLIMATE (Interview)

"I'll be an actor some day," John Weissmuller.

Pressing Question Department:
"Have you ever noticed that the drivers who inspire you with the most confidence are those who never take a 'chance'?"—Anna Roosevelt Dail.

Adam Sciffle's Journal
Hume, and finds Max Miller, the scrivener, and his partridge sitting on his door stoop, so I clapped my hands for my money to give an jar of spinach wine, which also did do, and was much able to sing, unless I am baffled, as I cannot remember anything on the conferring of the concentric theories of the cosmos.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS
And they seemed such a nice, quiet little couple.

No loquint or profanity allowed.

Balance the Budget

Balance the Budget puzzle still retains interest with the readers of the Boston Evening American. Each day ten pairs of tickets are mailed to the first ten persons to mail or bring in the correct solution to the puzzle.

Who has any idea it might be you to get a pair of tickets to Loew's State Theater.
"Meet the Baron" starts today at Loew's State, Massachusetts ave. Jack Pearl as Baron Munchausen with Jimmy Durante, the crown heads of comic song. Also a Laurel-Hardy comedy. The Hearst production with feature news from all over the world.
